

GERMANS FILTER INTO CAPTIVITY AT AMERICAN END OF ARGENTAN-FALAISE TRAP; PATTON'S THIRD ARMY HAS CAPTURED 39,000, WOUNDED 46,000, AND KILLED 11,000

Trapping Operations Proceed Without Extensive Fighting Anywhere — German Army Strength Appears To Have Broken Down to Local Strong-Points, Resulting in Guerrilla Warfare — At Least 20,000 of The Enemy Cut Off in Brest Peninsula.

(By International News Service)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES NEAR ARGENTAN, France, Aug. 16—The American end of the Argentan-Falaise trap is rapidly running dry today as the Germans are filtered in smaller batches into captivity or sneak out of the gap narrowed to approximately 11 miles in width.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army already has captured 39,000 prisoners, wounded 46,000 and killed 11,000, accounting for 96,000 of the enemy forces. The trapping operations were proceeding without extensive fighting anywhere.

Aside from the trap region, other areas like Brest and the Loire area the German army strength seems to have been broken down to local strongpoints and resulted in guerrilla warfare.

At least 20,000 of the enemy are cut off in the Brest peninsula and another 5,000 in the Loire region around Angers. All are bound to surrender.

Prisoners continue to give evidence of their discouragement over defeat.

ROME, Aug. 16—Allied invasion armies in Southern France swarmed inland from the Riviera beachheads today under the protective cover of strong aerial squadrons to seize numerous objectives in preparation for a march into the north of France and a junction with American, British and Canadian troops battling the Germans in Normandy.

Headquarters of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson said that operations involving the steady landing of troops reinforcements and supplies, were proceeding according to plan.

Forces from the beachheads pressed inland to make contact with thousands of airborne troops charged with warding off any Nazi effort at a counter-attack.

The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported that the Allies now hold a continuous 125-mile long front along the Riviera between San Treno and Toulon. New landings by airborne forces behind German coastal lines also were reported.

The British radio quoted an Exchange Telegraph correspondent as reporting "The Allies have taken five towns, including one which is five miles inland. One BBC correspondent had been as far as 20 miles behind Cannes."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Are They This Gullible?

Washington, Aug. 15. While Mr. Roosevelt still was away pursuing his "constitutional duties" (on a trip the need for which, despite his Saturday night radio report, could be much more convincingly argued from the standpoint of a Presidential candidate seeking re-election than from that of Commander-in-Chief) the news came out that, still pursuing his "constitutional duties" as Commander-in-Chief whose aloofness from politics is complete, he, nevertheless, has taken two steps which greatly concern the politicians in both parties.

ONE OF these was to send a message to the unfortunate Mr. Henry Wallace, congratulating him on his unsuccessful fight at Chicago and assuring him that if he, the President, should be re-elected, there will be an "important place" for "Dear Henry" in the Roosevelt Administration. The other was to write to Mr. Willie, that sore and suffering soul, inviting "Dear Wendell" to confer with him on his return concerning the foreign policies the United States should follow for the future. Considering these things, along with the known record, a situation is created which make one wonder if, after all, this is not a nation of incurable boobs, whose gullibility is without limit — an ideal setup for pious political humbugs.

TAKE THIS message to Mr. Wallace. Not even he can be naive enough not to know that he was double-crossed at Chicago by the man who now writes congratulating him on his fight. That charge was made at the time not only by impartial observers but by friends of Mr. Wallace and rather bluntly by columnists who, as a rule, have a protective attitude toward every questionable Presidential act. The evidence was overwhelming. There was the Roosevelt letter to Wallace, in which he "threw him

GREENLAND'S WINDS HAVE HIGH VELOCITY

Register 150 M. P. H. At Times; Average Summer Temperature 50

PERKASIE MAN HOME

PERKASIE, Aug. 16—With high winds registering as great a velocity as 150 miles per hour, Cpl. Joseph Lofland, now home on furlough, tells of life in Greenland.

Cpl. Lofland, who was raised at the home of Elmer Hunsicker, here, is enjoying a three weeks' furlough.

He landed at a Maine air base after spending 14 months in an anti-aircraft unit in Greenland. He states he hasn't seen a star since late in May, and hasn't had fresh milk since he left the United States.

"Most of the soldiers' food in Greenland is in dehydrated form, which is long on nutrition and short on flavor," he states.

The section of Greenland in which Lofland spent 14 months is entirely devoid of trees and vegetation. Summer temperatures average 50 degrees, while winter temperatures go as low as 60 degrees below zero.

Throughout the winter months there is no sunshine. During the middle of the day there is a light comparable to twilight here, but for days the sun does not show.

"Radio broadcasts from this country simply couldn't be picked up," said Cpl. Lofland, "but at times we had fairly good reception from England and Germany. The only entertainment we had was of our own making except on one occasion when Andy Devine stopped off for a 24 hour stay."

Lofland, after his furlough will report to Camp Davis, N. C.

Former President of Phila. Club Speaks in Bensalem

ANDALUSIA, Aug. 16—Last evening found Bensalem Rotary Club members at their usual meeting place, King Hall, Bristol Pike. Jacob Scheufele presided over the meeting. Two guests were present, the Rev. N. Herbert Caley, dean of the Germantown Convocation of the Episcopal Church; and Frank Whittam, of Langhorne, a past president of Philadelphia Rotary Club.

As a topic Mr. Whittam chose "Quo Vadis?" which translated means "Whither Goest Thou?" or "Where are you going?"

He remarked that this is something to think about, even after the war is won. Race, economics and reconversion problems all have to be met, he stated. He explained that Rotarians through their organization objectives of fellowship, community service, club service and international service, can and will help to solve these problems.

"A lot can be done along the lines of international service," he informed. "One way, even though seemingly a small way, is to correspond with members of other Rotary Clubs throughout the world. As a further guide to determining our course," Mr. Whittam said "we should keep in mind three flags, and in addition the things for which these flags stand. These flags are the American flag, the flag of Rotary International, and the flag of the church, no matter what faith it represents."

The program chairman, Harvey Walton, announced that next week he expects to have as a speaker Matthew Moe, the Norwegian Consul in Philadelphia; also Ralph Carson, son of James Carson, is expected to be present after returning from the Pacific theatre of war.

CROYDON, Aug. 16—Bucks County Rescue Squad will conduct a meeting in the headquarters at Maryland avenue, Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT A CURFEW LAW FOR JUVENILES IN BRISTOL?

The Bristol Travel Club has petitioned Borough Council to enact a curfew law so as to protect the youths who roam the streets, after a reasonable hour.

Do you approve of such a law? If so, what would you suggest for the hour and age limits?

Write or telephone your ideas to The Bristol Courier.

Dr. James P. Lawler, a local physician, when asked for his opinion on such a proposed law, stated he would like to give more study to the question before passing an opinion. "I would like to know just how such a law would read, what methods would be used for enforcing it, what ages and hours would be involved, and other details. I think it is a matter that needs very thorough study first."

Mrs. Herbert Hanson, a mother and grandmother, who resides at 1306 Pond street, had these comments to make: "I think a curfew law would be a good thing. There are so many mothers employed at night, and some children apparently take 'French leave.' Small children are seen on the streets as late as 11 o'clock and after at night, many of them nine to 11 years of age. I feel the parents should know where their children are in the evenings. And also if the children are up so late at night they don't get their proper rest."

Another Sixth Ward home-maker tells of seeing and hearing young children on the streets as late as midnight and even at two a. m. "They are just youngsters, and they don't merely go quietly on the way, but yell and 'carry on.' I don't know if a curfew law would help or not, but it would be worth trying I believe."

NAME C. H. BOEHM HEAD OF MILKWEED GATHERING GROUP

Silk From Pods Is Needed
To Aid in The War Effort

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Floss Is Used As A Substitute For the Java Kapok

According to Russell Edwards, Bucks County War Production Board chairman, the county superintendent of schools, Charles H. Boehm, has been selected to head the milkweed pod collection in Bucks County.

Essential war requirements for life belts and similar equipment provides that the common milkweed floss be used as a substitute for Java Kapok.

The need is urgent, and even the defeat of Germany or the recapture of the Dutch East Indies will not have the effect of slowing down the milkweed collection drive. After the "Japs" are driven out of Java it will probably take a year or more to restore normal conditions that would enable us to again obtain a steady supply of kapok from that source, it is stated. State and county highway departments have been requested not to mow roadsides in areas where milkweed is prevalent. Allowing the plants to mature need not result in the milkweed spreading, as the pods are picked for their floss before they burst and scatter the seed.

The state milkweed project leaders, through the state superintendent of public instruction, will arrange for a quantity of bags to be sent to each county school superintendent, who will arrange for distribution to schools. Other sponsoring groups, such as 4-H Clubs, Scout Troops, Camp Fire Girls, etc., may obtain bags through the county superintendent. In Bucks County the county superintendent's office will also act as buying agent for bags and pods. Using funds supplied for that purpose, the buying agent will purchase pods collected by schools and other groups. The teacher, scoutmaster, or 4-H club leader will keep a record of the bags of pods picked by each child or person, deliver all of the bags collected by the group to the buying agent and receive payment for the entire amount.

Over 1000 Heavy Bombers Blast Nazi Aircraft Factories

London—United States heavyweight bombers, more than 1,000 strong, blasted Nazi aircraft factories, engine plants, synthetic oil refineries and airbases in Germany today.

The fighter-escorted bombers dropped their missiles visually, securing good to excellent results, headquarters said.

The German agency DNB acknowledged that American bombers, flying with strong fighter cover, came in over central Germany from the west. Furious aerial combats were reported.

The daylight assaults on the Reich came after British Mosquito bombers hurled block-busters down on Berlin while other RAF craft mined enemy waters.

Allied Supplies Continue to Pour into City of Florence

Rome—Allied supplies continued to pour into the liberated city of Florence today as enemy sniping continued sporadically.

There was no change in the situation along the Fifth or Eighth army fronts, according to today's communique from Allied headquarters which emphasized the air operations in support of the new Allied landings in southern France.

Germans Admit That Allies Have Captured St. Malo

London—The German DNB agency reported today that "Allied troops, after street fighting which lasted several hours last night captured Saint Malo."

"The Allied forces were supported by massed tank formations," DNB said. "Some isolated resistance is still taking place in the citadel, which is however under constant Allied artillery and air bombardment."

St. Malo has been the scene of bitter German resistance for over 10 days—ever since the Americans broke through in the Brittany Peninsula and reached Brest and Loire.

The commander of the garrison at St. Malo is Col. Alois, a veteran of Stalingrad, who repeatedly turned down Allied appeals for surrender long after his position had become hopeless.

Though not of major size, the harbor of St. Malo will prove useful in supplying the Allied armies both in Brittany and farther west.

Perkasie Firemen Give Report On Fire Calls

PERKASIE, Aug. 16 — Perkasie firemen responded to three calls in July, according to the report submitted at the monthly meeting by Chief Henry Yoder. The calls were for a grass fire on the John Krakel farm, Ridge road; barn fire at the James Lancaster farm near Kellers Church, and a stand-by call to Dublin.

The treasurer reported the purchase of $1000 in paid up building and loan shares for the apparatus fund, and the trustees reported that necessary repairs are being made to the fire station and that a hose drier is being installed.

President Harry Binter appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of getting a new chief's car. Chief Yoder was instructed to arrange a demonstration of a portable pump.

The ambulance committee reported that two calls were received during the month. Abram Swartz and Mrs. John Gerhart were taken to Grand View Hospital.

Harry Trauger, a trustee, presented the firemen the national flag to be used in the meeting room.

The secretary was instructed to address a letter of thanks to the Perkasie Park Association for its annual donation.

A report was submitted on the condition of John Dillon, a local fireman who was severely burned when he went to the rescue of a fellow worker at the General Crushed Stone Company plant whose garments were ablaze as a result of an explosion of gasoline. Dillon had been hospitalized at Quakertown, and is now recuperating at his home here.

AMERICA AWAY FROM WORK

Almost daily new strikes crop up in various sections of the country. Every one of them impairs the efforts of this nation to win a quick victory in Europe and in the Pacific. Every one of them endangers the lives of some American boys who depend on equipment delivered to the right place at the right time.

An accurate estimate of idle workers is impossible because the scene changes almost hourly. Guesses in recent days have been as high as 100,000. At the Wright Aeronautical Corporation plant in Paterson, New Jersey, 20,000 workers struck because some workers were transferred to lower grade jobs. The company makes, among other products, engines for the B-29 Superfortress.

How can every worker during reconversion be kept at a job for which there is no longer need, and at wages which the war boom has upped to dizzy heights?

Fundamentally, the grievances in the strikes now plaguing the country is not the point at issue. The real issue is continued work during negotiations for settling labor disputes, if labor disputes there must be. The unions agreed to this principle. It is the only principle which in a Republic guarantees maintenance of adequate production. In dictator countries, no strikes are permitted at any time. Enforcement is applied from above.

ETERNAL LIFE WITH FATHER

The other day "Life with Father" played its 2,000th performance. This classic of American life, based on character and family relationship, rather than on plot, may chalk up a record for the longest run in the history of the American theater.

Nothing now on Broadway can compare with it in longevity. The nearest competitor is two years behind. Only two other plays still outrank "Life with Father," and one of these probably will be surpassed next winter.

It is interesting to note the kind of play which seizes and holds the public fancy. The all-time record holder is "Tobacco Road." That delved into depravity among the poor whites of Georgia. It shocked with its profanity, its situations and its portrayal of the abysses of human nature.

Perhaps that is the reason for its popularity. But if so, how accurate for the runner-up? "Abie's Irish Rose" is a compound of all the saccharine sentimentalities.

"Life with Father" has little resemblance to either of the other two. Based on the character of Clarence Day's father, it is a portrait of a family tyrant who somehow manages to be likable at the same time; of his wife and his red-headed kids, and of the little incidents which make up existence in an American home. It is realism of a different sort than found in "Tobacco Road," and while there are moments of pathos, there is nothing nawkish about them.

The only common denominator is the scene—these United States.

to the wolves." There was the subsequent Roosevelt letter endorsing Truman. There was the President's conference with Chairman Hannegan, after which orders went down the line for Truman. There were the declarations of Eddie Flynn and Eddie Kelly that of their personal knowledge Mr. Roosevelt wanted Truman. There was, finally, the fact that had the President kept hands off, Mr. Wallace would have won the nomination with ease.

IN THE face of all this, Mr. Roosevelt now writes to Mr. Wallace as though he had been sincerely for him in the convention instead of having been responsible for his defeat. And the great glib American people are supposed to subscribe to that. Moreover, Mr. Wallace will assist them in subscribing, because there is nothing else he can do. However well he may know that it was the President who struck him down, he cannot say so because the night before the President's friends delivered the knockout blow Mr. Wallace made one of the most extravagantly eulogistic of all pro-Roosevelt speeches. So high did he heap the praise that for a while it was thought he might have talked himself into the nomination.

BUT THE only result was that the speech so thoroughly committed him to Mr. Roosevelt, that after the Administration forces had "ruled" him he was in no position to sulk (as Mr. Wilkie, with not a title of Mr. Wallace's cause, has been doing for months) even if he had wanted to. His announced support of the ticket was prompt and complete. There was nothing else he could do. But that isn't enough for Mr. Roosevelt now. He does not want the effect of the scheduled Wallace speeches in his behalf diluted by the suspicion of treachery so generally cherished and so widely charged. Hence the message and the pledge, both well designed to convey the notion that the President really wanted Mr. Wallace nominated and did all he could to bring about his nomination. Mr. Wallace can do nothing to correct that notion. On the contrary, he has got to aid in the deception, for, that is what it is. Perhaps he wants to, but that does not seem natural.

IN PRINCIPLE, the Wilkie invitation is on the same level. In the last campaign, Mr. Roosevelt treated Mr. Wilkie with great contempt. His attitude seemed to be that he was a presumptuous upstart, too insignificant to dignify by mentioning his name. He has not greatly modified that attitude since. Mr. Wilkie's support of his foreign policies did make a certain change in their relations, though it is no secret that there exists neither personal liking nor regard between the two. Yet, here is the President, posing as wholly aloof from politics, but whose friends are alarmed by the recent Gallup polls, inviting to the White House for conference the one outstanding disgruntled Republican leader, for whose views he cares little but who threatens to bolt the Republican ticket, with whatever following he may have left.

AND MR. WILKIE, full of bile and bitterness, of course, will go. It helps the game he is playing and is intended to. Like the Wallace message, this is a studied piece of poli-

The building to be occupied at Bristol Terrace is the one which the Government built for stores to serve the two housing projects at that location. The building has not been occupied since its completion.

The Hunter offices are now housed in what is generally known as the Blue Moon Hosiery Building, Croydon. This portion of the building is to be vacated but the Hunter firm will continue to occupy a portion of the building as a warehouse.

Rural Workshop Is Ending This Week

One of the first rural workshops ever conducted is being concluded this week at the Applebachville School, Haycock Township.

The teacher in charge of the pupils during the past month was Dr. Genevieve Bowen, elementary supervisor of Bucks county.

Over forty teachers were in attendance at different sessions because the capacity of the one-room school limited the daily attendance to 22 teachers. Most of the teachers in attendance come from the various boroughs and townships in Upper Bucks, but a few teachers come from as far south as Wrightstown and Newtown Borough.

The workshop has been so successful that the County office has been asked to continue it for next year. Plans have already been made for a workshop next summer in the lower part of Bucks county.

In all likelihood, Dr. Bowen will want to institute another rural one-room workshop in Upper Bucks in 1945. The attendance during the past summer was over twice as large as was originally expected.

Some of the teachers who attended for college credits, which are available through Columbia, were present the entire four weeks' period. One of the teachers present was from Montgomery County and two of the teachers will teach in New Jersey next fall.

The parents of the children and the Haycock School Board were especially co-operative.

Gives Hints on Beautifying Of Homesteads in This Area

BROWNSBURG, Aug. 16 — The Upper Makefield Liberty Club conducted a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Slack, on Saturday afternoon.

At that time a talk on beautifying homesteads was given by Stephenson W. Fletcher, of George School.

Italian villas and the types of houses found in Mexico and California, said Mr. Fletcher, are not suitable in this locality.

About 60 members and friends attended the outing, and during the afternoon a program of sports was conducted under the leadership of Miss Mildred Slack. Baseball, quoits and games for the children were enjoyed.

Addressing the group, Mr. Fletcher said two or three things must be taken into consideration in the beautification of the home. First, he said, is the location of the house and its type, as to whether it is formal or informal. The lawn must also be taken into consideration, and this, it was said, should conform with the type of house.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church
Eddington

Our Father, we are at prayer again and that means solemn communion with thee. Grant that we, like thy servant of old, may be in the Spirit on this day which is also the Lord's day. We come in deep humility, for thou art high and exalted; we come in tender penitence, for the contrite heart is thy only dwelling; we come with eager expectation, for thou hast words of life, and with thee are peace, and power, and all things abundant, both in this life and in that which is to come. Light the flame upon our heart's altar; call forth the incense of prayer; awaken the song of praise, and manifest thyself to all. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Stuffed Pepper Surprise Center For Meat Loaf

Here is a new idea in meat loaves from the recipe file of Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, meat loaf with rice-stuffed green peppers baked in the center. The peppers add a pleasing flavor to the meat, as well as a colorful center for each slice.

The ground meat called for in the recipe is lamb. However, if ground lamb is not available, ground beef may be used.

Green Pepper Ring Lamb Loaf
1½ pounds ground lamb
1½ cups bread crumbs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons grated onion
1 cup cooked peas
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 small bay leaf
¾ cup cooked seasoned rice
1 egg
4 small green peppers

Buy lamb from the shoulder, breast or shank for grinding. Soak bread crumbs in milk. Add onion, peas, salt, pepper, chopped parsley and finely crumbled bay leaf. Mix thoroughly. In a separate bowl, combine the cooked rice and egg. Remove seeds and membranes from peppers. Parboil pepper cases about 5 minutes or until tender. Drain, rinse with cold water and fill with rice mixture. Line the bottom of a loaf pan (5x9 inches) with waxed paper. Pack a one-fourth inch layer of meat mixture into loaf pan. Arrange stuffed peppers on meat and pack remaining meat around peppers to make a firm loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1½ hours.

Uses for Rendered Fat
Fat rendered from pork or bacon can be successfully used as shortening in many quick breads and is particularly good in gingerbread, apple cake and spice cake.

PREPARE JUICE OF FRUIT NOW TO MAKE INTO JELLY LATER

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

When fruits are at the height of their season and most abundant, the home canner may not have the sugar to make all the jelly she wishes. She can, however, put up a supply of juice to use later for jelly. Jelly made from juice that has been stored as long as six months has as fine a texture as that made from fresh fruit, home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have found. The color and flavor may not be quite so distinct, however. This is especially the case with the juice from red fruits which lose color easily.

For making jelly, juice is prepared somewhat differently from that canned for beverage use. Fruit must be boiled rather than simmered to draw out pectin for jelly and no sugar is added.

A mixture of slightly under-ripe and ripe fruit makes the best juice for jelly because the under-ripe fruit gives more pectin and acid, and the ripe fruit gives the full color and flavor. Discard any damaged parts of the fruit. Wash thoroughly and drain. Wash berries quickly and handle gently to prevent loss of juice. Cut large fruits like apples in small pieces and leave cores in because they contain pectin.

Put fruit on to heat in a broad, flat-bottomed kettle. Very juicy fruit needs no water added, but firm fruit like apples need as much as a cup of water to a pound. Crush soft fruit to start juice flowing. Bring fruit to a boil, and stir to prevent scorching. After boiling starts, berries, currants and grapes need to boil 5 to 10 minutes until soft; apples and quinces 20 to 25 minutes.

Pour the hot cooked fruit at once into a jelly bag and let it drip. Pour the juice into hot sterilized jars and adjust lids. Place on a rack in a water bath with water simmering (185 degrees F.). When water again comes to the simmering temperature, simmer either pint or quart jars 20 minutes. Remove from water and seal tops except the metal self-sealing lids.

Store juice in a cool, dry, dark place until time to use it for making jelly.

LIBERATORE LEADS

Socked the Ball for Two Doubles, Single in Four Trips to Plate

TRENTON INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE Schedule for Tonight: Eastern Aircraft - Voltz-Texaco (Edgely diamond) Fleetwings and Rohm & Haas (Maple Beach field)

Held to four hits, the Rohm and Haas team took a 16-1 shellacking at the hands of the American Steel nine last evening on the Maple Beach diamond. The winners also had 16 hits to their credit.

Leading the attack for the visitors was "Eddie" Liberatore who socked the pill for two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate. The Steelers used thirteen players in the tilt.

Of the 16 hits made by the victors, five were for extra bases. The Trenton team started off by scoring four runs in the initial frame on a walk, Liberatore's double, Budd's triple, and singles by Micharski and Rossi. They added three in the second and five in the 4th and added up by scoring a quartet of rallies in the sixth.

"Bill" Ritter had two of the Rohm and Haas four hits and his double in the first scored Tosti with the only Rohm and Haas run of the game.

Only Four Cases of infantile Paralysis Reported

Bucks county, according to a representative of the office of Dr. Thomas Thompson, medical director for Bucks and Montgomery counties, has been quite fortunate thus far this season because it has but four cases of infantile paralysis. Montgomery county, on the other hand, according to information received yesterday, has had 16 cases this season.

Two of the cases in Bucks were in the extreme ends in the county, one in Bristol township, and the other in the Sellersville section. The cases in Montgomery county, which is somewhat more densely populated than Bucks county, were also scattered or rather spotty. The first of the cases was reported the forepart of last month, and to date, according to a representative of Dr. Thompson's office, there have been no fatalities in either county.

A number of the cases reported to Dr. Thompson's office have been rather mild.

Speaking for Dr. Thompson yesterday, his representative said that in neither county is there any semblance of an epidemic. Naturally, it was said, people became alarmed when a case of infantile paralysis breaks out in any community, and, although there are more cases in this part of the country this year than during 1943, there is no cause for alarm.

Like all other physicians and medical directors, Dr. Thompson recommends that children be given adequate rest, and it is important that they be kept out of crowds.

Poliomyelitis, the technical name given this disease, is most prevalent during the months of July, August and September.

"BADIES" WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP IN SUBURBAN LEAGUE

Cornwells Heights Nine Defeats Diamond By Score of 7 to 2

SAMSEL PITCHES WELL

Allows One Hit in First and Then Blanks The Opponents

The Badenhausen team captured the championship of the second half of the Bristol Suburban League by defeating the Diamond nine, 7-2, last evening on the Bensalem high school field.

It was chiefly the pitching of Benny Samsel which gave the Badies their triumph. Benny held the Mill street aggregation to a pair of hits and after the first blanked the losers. He allowed a hit in the first and another in the second and that was all as far as hits or runs were concerned.

Samsel had seven strikeouts to his credit but he was very wild as he issued pass after pass. In the five innings played, Samsel gave up ten passes and only in the first was the Diamond team able to take advantage of the wildness.

In this inning, Samsel loaded the bags by giving up three passes and Ciotti followed through with a double to score the only Diamond runs of the tilt.

Badenhausen had 11 hits off Woolvin and Morgan. The ironworkers hit the ball hard and in the pinches and counted all their markers in the second and third innings.

Leo Hibbs and Johnny Hemp both had a single and double to their credit to lead the Badies in their victory.

WINS SILVER STAR FOR GALLANTRY IN U.S. SUB ATTACKS

During his days as expert industrial serviceman with P.E., Edward G. Campbell was quick in his answers as to the best ways to utilize electricity in business.

That quickness of the expert seems to be a habit with Ed. As Communications Officer aboard a U.S. submarine, Lieutenant Campbell has been awarded the Navy's Silver Star for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity" in waters completely controlled by Japanese air and naval forces. Ed came to P.E. in October, 1938, following his graduation from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He entered the U.S. Navy in March, 1941, as a midshipman and has steadily advanced to the rank of Lieutenant.

His sub's conning tower is painted with a number of Jap flags, signifying enemy ships sunk.

Lieut. Edward G. Campbell former P. E. Industrial Serviceman

A recent survey conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce shows that better than 1 out of every 3 families plans to buy some new electrical appliance within the first six months after the war's end. Add to this the greatly increased use of electricity for industrial purposes and it becomes apparent that the so-called "age of electricity" is in reality just dawning. Already Philadelphia Electric is formulating plans for meeting the increased demand for power within this 5-county area. Greater capacities, improved methods of transmission, more economical production are just some of the improvements that will get under way as fast as materials become available and our more than 1070 highly trained workers come back from serving Uncle Sam.

Emblem awarded Philadelphia Electric by Office of Civilian Defense for maintenance of superior standard of production and security.

GERMANS FILTER INTO CAPTIVITY AT AMERICAN END OF ARGENTAN-FALAISE TRAP; PATTON'S THIRD ARMY HAS CAPTURED 39,000, WOUNDED 46,000, AND KILLED 11,000

Trapping Operations Proceed Without Extensive Fighting Anywhere — German Army Strength Appears To Have Broken Down to Local Strong-Points, Resulting in Guerrilla Warfare — At Least 20,000 of The Enemy Cut Off in Brest Peninsula.

(By International News Service)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES NEAR ARGENTAN, France, Aug. 16—The American end of the Argentan-Falaise trap is rapidly running dry today as the Germans are filtered in smaller batches into captivity or sneak out of the gap narrowed to approximately 11 miles in width.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army already has captured 39,000 prisoners, wounded 46,000 and killed 11,000, accounting for 96,000 of the enemy forces. The trapping operations were proceeding without extensive fighting anywhere.

Aside from the trap region, other areas like Brest and the Loire area the German army strength seems to have been broken down to local strongpoints and resulted in guerrilla warfare.

At least 20,000 of the enemy are cut off in the Brest peninsula and another 5,000 in the Loire region around Angers. All are bound to surrender.

Prisoners continue to give evidence of their discouragement over defeat.

ROME, Aug. 16—Allied invasion armies in Southern France swarmed inland from the Riviera beachheads today under the protective cover of strong aerial squadrons to seize numerous objectives in preparation for a march into the north of France and a junction with American, British and Canadian troops battling the Germans in Normandy.

Headquarters of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson said that operations involving the steady landing of troops reinforcements and supplies, were proceeding according to plan.

Forces from the beachheads pressed inland to make contact with thousands of airborne troops charged with warding off any Nazi effort at a counter-attack.

The German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported that the Allies now hold a continuous 125-mile long front along the Riviera between San Troeno and Toulon. New landings by airborne forces behind German coastal lines also were reported.

The British radio quoted an Exchange Telegraph correspondent as reporting "The Allies have taken five towns, including one which is five miles inland. One BBC correspondent had been as far as 20 miles behind Cannes."

GREENLAND'S WINDS HAVE HIGH VELOCITY

Register 150 M. P. H. At Times; Average Summer Temperature 50

PERKASIE MAN HOME

PERKASIE, Aug. 16—With high winds registering as great a velocity as 150 miles per hour, Cpl. Joseph Lofland, now home on furlough, tells of life in Greenland.

Cpl. Lofland, who was raised at the home of Elmer Hunsicker, here, is enjoying a three weeks' furlough. He landed at a Maine air base after spending 14 months with an anti-aircraft unit in Greenland. He states he hasn't seen a star since late in May, and hasn't had fresh milk since he left the United States.

"Most of the soldiers' food in Greenland is in dehydrated form, which is long on nutrition and short on flavor," he states. The section of Greenland in which Lofland spent 14 months is entirely devoid of trees and vegetation. Summer temperatures average 50 degrees, while winter temperatures go as low as 60 degrees below zero.

Throughout the winter months there is no sunshine. During the middle of the day there is a light comparable to twilight here, but for days the sun does not show.

"Radio broadcasts from this country simply couldn't be picked up," said Cpl. Lofland, "but at times we had fairly good reception from England and Germany. The only entertainment we had was of our own making except on one occasion when Andy Devine stopped off for a 24 hour stay."

Lofland, after his furlough will report to Camp Davis, N. C.

Former President of Phila. Club Speaks in Bensalem

ANDALUSIA, Aug. 16—Last evening found Bensalem Rotary Club members at their usual meeting place, High Hall, Bristol Pike. Jacob Scheufele presided over the meeting. Two guests were present, the Rev. N. Herbert Caley, dean of the Germantown Convocation of the Episcopal Church; and Frank Whittam, of Langhorne, a past president of Philadelphia Rotary Club.

As a topic Mr. Whittam chose "Quo Vadis?" which translated means "Whither Goest Thou?" or "Where are you going?"

He remarked that this is something to think about, even after the war is won. Race, economics and conversion problems all have to be met, he stated. He explained that Rotarians through their organization objectives of fellowship, community service, club service and international service, can and will help to solve these problems.

"A lot can be done along the lines of international service," he informed. "One way, even though seemingly a small way, is to correspond with members of other Rotary Clubs throughout the world. As a further guide to determining our course," Mr. Whittam said "we should keep in mind three flags, and in addition the things for which these flags stand. These flags are the American flag, the flag of Rotary International, and the flag of the church, no matter what faith it represents."

The program chairman, Harvey Walton, announced that next week he expects to have as a speaker Matthew Moe, the Norwegian Consul in Philadelphia; also Ralph Carson, son of James Carson, is expected to be present after returning from the Pacific theatre of war.

CROYDON, Aug. 16—Bucks County Rescue Squad will conduct a meeting in the headquarters on Maryland avenue, Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT A CURFEW LAW FOR JUVENILES IN BRISTOL?

The Bristol Travel Club has petitioned Borough Council to enact a curfew law so as to protect the youths who roam the streets, after a reasonable hour.

Do you approve of such a law? If so, what would you suggest for the hour and age limits? Write or telephone your ideas to The Bristol Courier.

Dr. James P. Lawler, a local physician, when asked for his opinion on such a proposed law, stated he would like to give more study to the question before passing an opinion. "I would like to know just how such a law would read, what methods would be used for enforcing it, what ages and hours would be involved, and other details. I think it is a matter that needs very thorough study first."

Mrs. Herbert Hanson, a mother and grandmother, who resides at 1306 Pond street, had these comments to make: "I think a curfew law would be a good thing. There are so many mothers employed at night, and some children apparently take 'French leave.' Small children are seen on the streets as late as 11 o'clock and after at night, many of them nine to 11 years of age. I feel the parents should know where their children are in the evenings. And also if the children are up so late at night they don't get their proper rest."

Another Sixth Ward home-maker tells of seeing and hearing young children on the streets as late as midnight and even at two a. m. "They are just youngsters, and they don't merely go quietly on the way, but yell and 'carry on.' I don't know if a curfew law would help or not, but it would be worth trying I believe."

NAME C. H. BOEHM HEAD OF MILKWEED GATHERING GROUP

Silk From Pods Is Needed To Aid in The War Effort

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Floss Is Used As A Substitute For the Java Kapok

According to Russell Edwards, Bucks County War Production Board chairman, the county superintendent of schools, Charles H. Boehm, has been selected to head the milkweed pod collection in Bucks County.

Essential war requirements for life belts and similar equipment provides that the common milkweed floss be used as a substitute for Java Kapok.

The need is urgent, and even the defeat of Germany or the recapture of the Dutch East Indies will not have the effect of slowing down the milkweed collection drive. After the "Japs" are driven out of Java it will probably take a year or more to restore normal conditions that would enable us to again obtain a steady supply of kapok from that source. It is stated State and county highway departments have been requested not to mow roadsides in areas where milkweed is prevalent. Allowing the plants to mature need not result in the milkweed spreading, as the pods are picked for their floss before they burst and scatter the seed.

The state milkweed project leaders, through the state superintendent of public instruction, will arrange for a quantity of bags to be sent to each county school superintendent, who will arrange for distribution to schools. Other sponsoring groups, such as 4-H Clubs, Scout Troops, Camp Fire Girls, etc., may obtain bags through the county superintendent. In Bucks County the county superintendent's office will also act as buying agent for bags and pods. Using funds supplied for that purpose, the buying agent will purchase pods collected by schools and other groups. The teacher, Scoutmaster, or 4-H club leader will keep a record of the bags of pods picked by each child or person, deliver all of the bags collected by the group to the buying agent and receive payment for the entire amount.

Over 1000 Heavy Bombers Blast Nazi Aircraft Factories

London—United States heavyweight bombers, more than 1,000 strong, blasted Nazi aircraft factories, engine plants, synthetic oil refineries and airbases in Germany today.

The fighter-escorted bombers dropped their missiles visually, securing good to excellent results, headquarters said.

The German agency DNB acknowledged that American bombers, flying with strong fighter cover, came in over central Germany from the west. Furious aerial combats were reported.

The daylight assaults on the Reich came after British Mosquito bombers hurled block-busters down on Berlin while other RAF craft mined enemy waters.

Allied Supplies Continue to Pour into City of Florence

Rome—Allied supplies continued to pour into the liberated city of Florence today as enemy sniping continued sporadically.

There was no change in the situation along the Fifth or Eighth army fronts, according to today's communique from Allied headquarters which emphasized the air operations in support of the new Allied landings in southern France.

Germans Admit That Allies Have Captured St. Malo

London—The German DNB agency reported today that "Allied troops, after street fighting which lasted several hours last night captured Saint Malo."

"The Allied forces were supported by massed tank formations," DNB said. "Some isolated resistance is still taking place in the citadel, which is however under constant Allied artillery and air bombardment." St. Malo has been the scene of bitter German resistance for over 10 days—ever since the Americans broke through in the Brittany Peninsula and reached Brest and Loire.

The commander of the garrison at St. Malo is Col. Auloch, a veteran of Stalingrad, who reportedly turned down Allied appeals for surrender long after his position had become hopeless. Though not of major size, the harbor of St. Malo will prove useful in supplying the Allied armies both in Brittany and farther west.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Are They This Cullible?

Washington, Aug. 15.

While Mr. Roosevelt was still away pursuing his "constitutional duties" (on a trip the need for which, despite his Saturday night radio report, could be much more convincingly argued from the standpoint of a Presidential candidate seeking re-election than from that of Commander-in-Chief) the news "came out that, still pursuing his "constitutional duties" as Commander-in-Chief whose aloofness from politics is complete, he, nevertheless, has taken two steps which greatly concern the politicians in both parties.

ONE OF these was to send a message to the unfortunate Mr. Henry Wallace, congratulating him on his unsuccessful fight at Chicago and assuring him that if he, the President, should be re-elected, there will be an "important place" for "Dear Henry" in the Roosevelt Administration. The other was to write to Mr. Wilkie, that sore and suffering soul, inviting "Dor Wendell" to confer with him on his return concerning the foreign policies the United States should follow for the future. Considering these things, along with the known record, a situation is created which make one wonder if, after all, this is not a nation of incurable boobies, whose gullibility is without limit—an ideal setup for pious political humbugs.

TAKE THIS message to Mr. Wallace. Not even he can be naive enough not to know that he was double-crossed at Chicago by the man who now writes congratulating him on his fight. That charge was made at the time not only by impartial observers but by friends of Mr. Wallace and rather bluntly by columnists who, as a rule, have a protective attitude toward every questionable Presidential act. The evidence was overwhelming. There was the Roosevelt letter to Wallace, in which he "threw him

Almost daily new strikes crop up in various sections of the country. Every one of them impairs the efforts of this nation to win a quick victory in Europe and in the Pacific. Every one of them endangers the lives of some American boys who depend on equipment delivered to the right place at the right time.

An accurate estimate of idle workers is impossible because the scene changes almost hourly. Guesses in recent days have been as high as 100,000. At the Wright Aeronautical Corporation plant in Paterson, New Jersey, 20,000 workers struck because some workers were transferred to lower grade jobs. The company makes, among other products, engines for the B-29 Superfortress.

How can every worker during reconversion be kept at a job for which there is no longer need and at wages which the war boom has upped to dizzy heights?

Fundamentally, the grievances in the strikes now plaguing the country is not the point at issue. The real issue is continued work during negotiations for settling labor disputes, if labor disputes there must be. The unions agreed to this principle. It is the only principle which in a Republic guarantees maintenance of adequate production. In dictator countries, no strikes are permitted at any time. Enforcement is applied from above.

ETERNAL LIFE WITH FATHER

The other day "Life with Father" played its 2,000th performance. This classic of American life, based on character and family relationship, rather than on plot, may chalk up a record for the longest run in the history of the American theater.

Nothing now on Broadway can compare with it in longevity. The nearest competitor is two years behind. Only two other plays still outrank "Life with Father," and one of these probably will be surpassed next winter.

It is interesting to note the kind of play which seizes and holds the public fancy. The all-time record holder is "Tobacco Road." That delved into depravity among the poor whites of Georgia. It shocked with its profanity, its situations and its portrayal of the abysses of human nature.

Perhaps that is the reason for its popularity. But if so, how account for the runner-up? "Abie's Irish Rose" is a compound of all the saccharine sentimentalities.

"Life with Father" has little resemblance to either of the other two. Based on the character of Clarence Day's father, it is a portrait of a family tyrant who somehow manages to be likable at the same time; of his wife and his red-headed kids, and of the little incidents which make up existence in an American home. It is realism of a different sort than found in "Tobacco Road," and while there are moments of pathos, there is nothing mawkish about them.

The only common denominator is the scene—these United States.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM SUBURBAN TOWNS

HULMEVILLE

Herbert Potter, S. L. C., has returned to New York, N. Y., following a leave spent with his wife, son and other relatives here.

Thursday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bilger and Mrs. Wesley Bilger were Mrs. Belle Paxson, Miss Edna Bilger and Frank Bilger, of Langhorne.

Shirley Althouse is in Philadelphia, spending a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Althouse. Dorothy Althouse returned to Philadelphia with Shirley, following a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwood Althouse.

Twelve members of the Ladies Auxiliary met in William Penn Fire Co. station on Monday evening for their August meeting. Mrs. William Hill was the presiding officer, with Mrs. James Tracy in charge of records. Bills were ordered paid and routine business transacted. A social period and refreshments followed.

By FRANK R. KENT

to the wolves." There was the subsequent Roosevelt letter endorsing Truman. There was the President's conference with Chairman Hannegan, after which orders went down the line for Truman. There were the declarations of Eddie Flynn and Eddie Kelly that of their personal knowledge Mr. Roosevelt wanted Truman. There was, finally, the fact that had the President kept hands off, Mr. Wallace would have won the nomination with ease.

IN THE face of all this, Mr. Roosevelt now writes to Mr. Wallace as though he had been sincerely for him in the convention instead of having been responsible for his defeat. And the great glib American people are supposed to subscribe to that. Moreover, Mr. Wallace will assist them in subscribing, because there is nothing else he can do. However well he may know that it was the President who struck him down, he cannot say so because the night before the President's friends delivered the knockout blow Mr. Wallace made one of the most extravagantly egotistic of all post-Roosevelt speeches. So high did he heap the praise that for a while it was thought he might have talked himself into the nomination.

BUT THE only result was that the speech so thoroughly committed him to Mr. Roosevelt, that after the Administration forces had "rolled" him he was in no position to sulk (as Mr. Wilkie, with not a tittle of Mr. Wallace's cause, has been doing for months) even if he had wanted to. His announced support of the ticket was prompt and complete. There was nothing else he could do. But that isn't enough for Mr. Roosevelt now. He does not want the effect of the scheduled Wallace speeches in his behalf diffused by the suspicion of treachery so generally cherished and so widely charged. Hence the message and the pledge, both well designed to convey the notion that the President really wanted Mr. Wallace nominated and did all he could to bring about his nomination. Mr. Wallace can do nothing to correct that notion. On the contrary, he has got to aid in the deception, for that is what it is. Perhaps he wants to, but that does not seem natural.

IN PRINCIPLE, the Wilkie invitation is on the same level. In the last campaign, Mr. Roosevelt treated Mr. Wilkie with great contempt. His attitude seemed to be that he was a presumptuous upstart, too insignificant to dignify by mentioning his name. He has not greatly modified that attitude since. Mr. Wilkie's support of his foreign policies did make a certain change in their relations, though it is no secret that there exists neither personal liking nor regard between the two. Yet here is the President, posing as wholly aloof from politics, but whose friends are alarmed by the recent Gallup polls, inviting to the White House for conference the one outstanding disgruntled Republican leader, for whose views he cares little but who threatens to bolt the Republican ticket, with whatever following he may have left.

AND MR. WILKIE, full of bile and bitterness, of course, will go. It helps the game he is playing and it intends to. Like the Wallace message he studied piece of poli-

FALLSINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. John Eckersly and children, Joseph, Muriel and Nancy, of Fall River, Mass., have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kellett.

Mrs. Claud Grosh, of Elizabethtown, Pa., and Miss Myra Grosh, of Cleveland, Ohio, have been visiting at the home of their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Neagle.

Albert Hibbs and daughter, Mrs. Joseph White, are spending some time at Mr. Hibbs' cabin in the Poconos.

Miss Mae W. Kelly and Miss Emma F. Moon were recent visitors at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Buckalew and daughter, Alfreda, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Parmar, Tyburn Road.

ties, but forth as though there were no such thing as politics. The people are supposed to accept these steps as non-partisan, non-political, made by a man whose mind is so concentrated upon the great problems of war and peace that he gives no thought to his personal political fortunes. Perhaps he can make this notion stick, but there are indications that an increasing number are beginning to grasp its essential phoniness. This may be due to the fact that the things the people are being asked to swallow appear to grow larger and tougher all the time.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

SOME Sundays it may be almost "too hot to eat"—but the higher the mercury goes, the more enjoyable a deliciously-flavored frozen dessert.

Nor need the fact that whipping cream is now out of the picture prevent the enjoyment of ice cream, sherbet, mousse, frozen custards, frozen puddings and other tempting desserts which have been congealed in the family refrigerator, says the A & P Service for Home-Makers.

Whipped evaporated milk may be substituted for whipped cream, care being taken to have the milk very cold when it is poured into the freezing tray. As soon as it has begun to freeze, it should be removed to a chilled bowl, and whipped with a chilled beater. Light cream will whip if gelatin is added—1½ tea-spoons of gelatin to a cup of cream. Place gelatin in 2 tablespoons of cold milk, and stir over hot water until dissolved. Stir dissolved gelatin into thoroughly chilled cream and beat until stiff.

Ice cream whipped up when half frozen will have a smoother texture.

Abundant supplies of fruit greet the food shopper—peaches, water-melons, western honeydews, plums and cooking apples. Home-grown vegetables include beets, potatoes, eggplant, cucumbers, peppers, onions, western peas, and plenty of corn and tomatoes. Ducks and chickens are still plentiful. Lamb is in fair supply, with further improvement expected. Pork loins and hams are scarce, as is good beef.

Picking begins as soon as the seeds turn brown. This will range from late August in the more southern states to late September in the northern states. State and county war boards will announce the approximate time for picking to begin. Avoid picking too early. The loss from immature pods does not have the desired buoyancy and is worthless for life saving equipment.

It is important that all pods be placed in open-mesh onion bags to insure proper drying. These bags are furnished to pickers without charge and hold about one bushel of pods. The bags should be filled at picking time but not packed. As the pods dry they shrink slightly and the bag develops the appearance of not having been completely filled. It is not necessary or desirable to re-fill bags of air dried pods prior to delivery. This shrinkage is anticipated and acceptable. Properly dried mature pods will yield 20 per cent loss, and two bags of pods will supply sufficient loss for one life jacket.

Twenty cents a bag will be paid for air-dried pods. Drying involves hanging the bags of pods on a fence in the open air, the bottom of the bag at least 12 inches from the ground. This should be done immediately or within 24 hours after the pods are picked to avoid spoilage. Rain or snow won't hurt them during the drying period. They will be dry enough to take indoors for storage in two or six weeks, depending upon the weather. Bags of pods should not be taken indoors or stacked until they are dry.

Bags of air dried pods should be held by the individual collector or groups until notification is received of a designated assembly day or period. In all probability this will occur about one month after the end of the picking season so as to permit ample time for complete drying of the crop. This assembly period will be widely announced through the schools and other local organizations.

All collectors should notify the county superintendent immediately if it is stated.

Rural Workshop Is Ending This Week

One of the first rural workshops ever conducted is being concluded this week at the Applebachville School, Haycock Township.

The teacher in charge of the pupils during the past month was Dr. Genevieve Bowen, elementary supervisor of Bucks county.

Over forty teachers were in attendance at different sessions because the capacity of the one-room school limited the daily attendance to 22 teachers. Most of the teachers in attendance came from the various boroughs and townships in Upper Bucks, but a few teachers came from as far south as Wrightstown and Newtown Borough.

The workshop has been so successful that the County office has been asked to continue it for next year. Plans have already been made for a workshop next summer in the lower part of Bucks county.

In all likelihood, Dr. Bowen will want to institute another rural one-room workshop in Upper Bucks in 1946. The attendance during the past summer was over twice as large as was originally expected.

Some of the teachers who attended for college credits, which are available through Columbia, were present the entire four weeks' period. One of the teachers present was from Montgomery County and two of the teachers will teach in New Jersey next fall.

The parents of the children and the Haycock School Board were especially co-operative.

Gives Hints on Beautifying Of Homesteads in This Area

BROWNSBURG, Aug. 16 — The Upper Mafekeld Liberty Club conducted a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Slack, on Saturday afternoon.

At that time a talk on beautifying homesteads was given by Stephenson W. Fletcher, of George School.

Italian villas and the types of houses found in Mexico and California, said Mr. Fletcher, are not suitable in this locality.

About 60 members and friends attended the outing, and during the afternoon a program of sports was conducted under the leadership of Miss Mildred Slack. Baseball, quoits and games for the children were enjoyed.

Addressing the group, Mr. Fletcher said two or three things must be taken into consideration in the beautification of the home. First, he said, is the location of the house and its type, as to whether it is formal or informal. The lawn must also be taken into consideration, and this, it was said, should conform with the type of house.

Today's Quiet Moment

Our Father, we are at prayer again and that means solemn communion with thee. Grant that we, like thy servant of old, may be in the Spirit on this day which is also the Lord's day. We come in deep humility, for thou art high and exalted; we come in tender penitence, for the contrite heart is thy only dwelling; we come with eager expectation, for thou hast words of life, and with thee are peace, and power, and all things abundant, both in this life and in that which is to come. Light the flame upon our heart's altar; call forth the incense of prayer; awaken the song of praise, and manifest thyself to all. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Mrs. Allen Lebo, Jr., Trenton avenue, spent Friday in Atlantic City, N. J., visiting her daughter Patricia.

Stuffed Pepper Surprise Center For Meat Loaf

Here is a new idea in meat loaves from the recipe file of Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, meat loaf with rice-stuffed green peppers baked in the center. The peppers add a pleasing flavor to the meat, as well as a colorful center for each slice.

The ground meat called for in the recipe is lamb. However, if ground lamb is not available, ground beef may be used.

Green Pepper Ring Lamb Loaf
1½ pounds ground lamb
1½ cups bread crumbs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons grated onion
1 cup cooked peas
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 small bay leaf
¾ cup cooked seasoned rice
1 egg
4 small green peppers

Buy: lamb from the shoulder, breast or shank for grinding. Soak bread crumbs in milk. Add onion, peas, salt, pepper, chopped parsley and finely crumbled bay leaf. Mix thoroughly. In a separate bowl, combine the cooked rice and egg. Remove seeds and membranes from peppers. Parboil pepper cases about 5 minutes or until tender. Drain, rinse with cold water and fill with rice mixture. Line the bottom of a loaf pan (5x9 inches) with waxed paper. Pack a one-fourth inch layer of meat mixture into loaf pan. Arrange stuffed peppers on meat and pack remaining meat around peppers to make a firm loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1½ hours.

Uses for Rendered Fat
Fat rendered from pork or bacon can be successfully used as shortening in many quick breads and is particularly good in gingerbread, apple sauce and spice cake.

PREPARE JUICE OF FRUIT NOW TO MAKE INTO JELLY LATER

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

When fruits are at the height of their season and most abundant, the home canner may not have the sugar to make all the jelly she wishes. She can, however, put up a supply of juice to use later for jelly. Jelly made from juice that has been stored as long as six months has as fine a texture as that made from fresh fruit, home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have found. The color and flavor may not be quite so distinct, however. This is especially the case with the juice from red fruits which lose color easily.

For making jelly, juice is prepared somewhat differently from that canned for beverage use. Fruit must be boiled rather than simmered to draw out pectin for jelly and no sugar is added.

A mixture of slightly under-ripe and ripe fruit makes the best juice for jelly because the under-ripe fruit gives more pectin and acid, and the ripe fruit gives the full color and flavor. Discard any damaged parts of the fruit. Wash thoroughly and drain. Wash berries quickly and handle gently to prevent loss of juice. Cut large fruits like apples in small pieces and leave cores in because they contain pectin.

Put fruit on to heat in a broad, flat-bottomed kettle. Very juicy fruit needs no water added, but firm fruit like apples need as much as a cup of water to a pound. Crush soft fruit to start juice flowing. Bring fruit to a boil, and stir to prevent scorching. After boiling starts, berries, currants and grapes need to boil 5 to 10 minutes until soft; apples and quinces 20 to 25 minutes.

Pour the hot cooked fruit at once into a jelly bag and let it drip. Pour the juice into hot sterilized jars and adjust lids. Place on a rack in a water bath with water simmering (185 degrees F.). When water again comes to the simmering temperature, simmer either pint or quart jars 20 minutes. Remove from water and seal tops except the metal self-sealing lids.

Store juice in a cool, dry, dark place until time to use it for making jelly.

Only Four Cases of Infantile Paralysis Reported

Bucks county, according to a representative of the office of Dr. Thomas Thompson, medical director for Bucks and Montgomery counties, has been quite fortunate thus far this season because it has but four cases of infantile paralysis. Montgomery county, on the other hand, according to information received yesterday, has had 16 cases this season.

Two of the cases in Bucks were in the extreme ends in the county, one in Bristol township, and the other in the Sellersville section. The cases in Montgomery county, which is somewhat more densely populated than Bucks county, were also scattered or rather spotty.

The first of the cases was reported the forepart of last month, and to date, according to a representative of Dr. Thompson's office, there have been no fatalities in either county.

A number of the cases reported to Dr. Thompson's office have been rather mild.

Speaking for Dr. Thompson yesterday, his representative said that in neither county is there any semblance of an epidemic. Naturally, it was said, people became alarmed when a case of infantile paralysis breaks out in any community, and, although there are more cases in this part of the country this year than during 1943, there is no cause for alarm.

Like all other physicians and medical directors, Dr. Thompson recommends that children be given adequate rest, and it is important that they be kept out of crowds.

Poliomyelitis, the technical name given this disease, is most prevalent during the months of July, August and September.

"BADIES" WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP IN SUBURBAN LEAGUE

Cornwells Heights Nine
Defeats Diamond By
Score of 7 to 2

SAMSEL PITCHES WELL

Allows One Hit in First and Then Blanks The Opponents

The Badenhausen team captured the championship of the second half of the Bristol Suburban League by defeating the Diamond nine, 7-2, last evening on the Bensalem high school field.

It was chiefly the pitching of Benny Samsel which gave the Badies their triumph. Benny held the Mill street aggregation to a pair of hits and after the first blanked the losers. He allowed a hit in the first and another in the second and that was all as far as hits or runs were concerned.

Samsel had seven strikeouts to his credit but he was very wild as he issued pass after pass. In the nine innings played, Samsel gave up ten passes and only in the first was the Diamond team able to take advantage of the wildness.

In this inning, Samsel loaded the bags by giving up three passes and Clotti followed through with a double to score the only Diamond runs of the tilt.

Badenhausen had 11 hits off Woolvin and Morgan. The ironworkers hit the ball hard and in the pinches and counted all their markers in the second and third innings.

Leo Hibbs and Johnny Hemp both had a single and double to their credit to lead the Badies in their victory.

WINS SILVER STAR FOR GALLANTRY IN U.S. SUB ATTACKS

During his days as expert industrial serviceman with P.E., Edward G. Campbell was quick in his answers as to the best ways to utilize electricity in business.

That quickness of the expert seems to be a habit with Ed. As Communications Officer aboard a U.S. submarine, Lieutenant Campbell has been awarded the Navy's Silver Star for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity" in waters completely controlled by Japanese air and naval forces. Ed came to P.E. in October, 1938, following his graduation from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He entered the U.S. Navy in March, 1941, as a midshipman and has steadily advanced to the rank of Lieutenant.

His sub's conning tower is painted with a number of Jap flags, signifying enemy ships sunk.

A recent survey conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce shows that better than 1 out of every 3 families plans to buy some new electrical appliance within the first six months after the war's end. Add to this the greatly increased use of electricity for industrial purposes and it becomes apparent that the so-called "age of electricity" is in reality just dawning. Already Philadelphia Electric is formulating plans for meeting the increased demand for power within this 5-county area. Greater capacities, improved methods of transmission, more economical production are just some of the improvements that will get under way as fast as materials become available and our more than 1070 highly trained workers come back from serving Uncle Sam.

Lieut. Edward G. Campbell
